MURRAY A. GORDON

Enclosed report reflects that MURRAY A. GORDON, lawyer, received the same degree as the subject and both graduated in 1941 from CUNY. GORDON is a law partner of JOHN ROGGE. ROGGE has made trips to Yugoslavia and Poland and as a result he may have been contacted by CIA for information. It is probable that ROGGE in view of his background would have as a client an official of the City of New York.

ROGGE has been cooperative with the FBI. However, to avoid the possibility of jeopardizing the investigation of subject's current activities, an interview of ROGGE is not recommended at the present time.

Letter to DIRECTOR, FBI
NY 100-87433

Concerning GORDON, NY teletype to Bureau 4/30/53, entitled "JULIUS ROSENBERG, et.al; ESPIONAGE - R", concerns a written statement by DAVID GREENGLASS which was apparently stolen from the office files of O. JOHN ROGGE, attorney for ORAINGLASS, reproduced, and then returned to the ROGGE office files. The statement of GREENGLASS was utilized as a basis for an appeal by the ROSENBERGS. Retel reflects that MURRAY A. GORDON was a partner in ROGGE's office at the time that the statement was taken and returned.

Investigation will be instituted of GORDON in an attempt to ascertain the basis and extent of his association with HERMAN STAROBIN. It is desirable to ascertain whether GORDON participated in any Communist activity at CCNY, and the details of his past Departmental employment.

"HERMAN"

In view of the information that subject was a good friend of the ROSENBERGS, consideration has been given to the possibility that he was involved in their espionage activities.

NY teletype to Director 12/12/50 in the ROSENBERG case reflects that JEROME TARTAKOW, cell mate of JULIUS ROSENBERG, stated that ROSENBERG mentioned to TARTAKOW, in connection with espionage activities, the name "HERMAN". ROSENBERG stated he was "a very solid person" today, but ROSENBERG refused to furnish his complete name.

NY letter to Director, 1/3/51, reflects that ROSENBERG stated that he had a good friend named "HERMAN" who had joined the YCL with him. At that time JULIUS was 14 years old, and he joined the YCL on Essex Street. JULIUS spoke of "HERMAN" as though he was a very important person, but was careful not to disclose his identity or occupation. ROSENBERG stated that HERMAN graduated from public school with him and that he was also graduated from CCNY.

"HERMAN" would not appear to be identical with the subject based on the following: ROSENBERG, born 1918, graduated from PS in Manhattan in 1930, from Seward Park High in Manhattan in 1934, and from CCNY (B.S. degree) in January 1939. In contrast, the subject graduated from De Witt Clinton High in the Bronx in 1937 and graduated from CCNY (B.S. degree) in September 1941.

PAVEL FEDOSINOV

[REDACTED] b1

[REDACTED] b1

Surveillance on 3/21/45, reflected at 10:00 A.M.
that a man believed to be HENRI STARGIER entered the Consulate.

HENRY GOLD has identified the photo of FEDOSINOV as a person who in 1946 showed up at a meet in place of ANATOLE LAKOVLEV, an espionage superior of GOLD.

Reference is made to NY report of SA ALLEN C.
ROBERTS, 7/10/53, pp. 4, 5, 6, entitled "PAVEL IVANOVICH FEDOSINOV; ESPIONAGE - R", and NY report of SA ROBERTS in the same case dated 1/20/54, p. 10. These reflect that JIM JINSON, above, was undoubtedly ANTHONY JINSON, editor of Allied Labor News (ALN) in NYC. Subject was employed by ALN during the period when JIM JINSON mentioned the subject.
JINSON and ALN were in contact with FEDOSINOV concerning correspondents in Moscow and the obtaining of Soviet material for ALN stories. JINSON returned to England in 1945.

Concerning subject's desire to confer with FEDOSINOV regarding the possibility of going to Russia, enclosed report reflects from a different source that the subject had a visa to go to Russia in 1944, but couldn't get a passport.

ALL: COM: MEMPHIS

It is noted that the subject and ROSENBERG were in

Letter to DIRECTOR, FBI

mutual attendance at CCNY from September 1937 to January 1939. ROSENBERG was secretary of YCL at CCNY in 1936. Subject was an editorial assistant of the "Young Communist League Review" for December 1938. NATHAN SUGSMAN, former YCL member who graduated from CCNY in September, 1938, advised in January, 1954, that he recalled that one HENRY STAROBIN, class of 1941, was in the Main Club of YCL (same YCL Club as MORTON SOBEL).

It is believed that HENRY STAROBIN is a misspelling and not an alias, and said information will not be reported until SUGSMAN can be re-interviewed to identify the subject and ascertain subject's association at CCNY with ROSENBERG, if any. If necessary, other individuals previously interviewed in the ROSENBERG case and in a position to know of any such association will also be interviewed.

Cooperative figures in the ROSENBERG case will be interviewed to determine if they have any knowledge concerning the subject.

It must be noted, however, that investigation of subject will be concentrated on his present activities, in view of information set out in NY letter to Director, 10/14/55, entitled "ISIDORE GIBBY NEEDLEMAN, was.; IS-R; ISA 1950", pages 6-9, which reflects that the subject is apparently at the present time doing something which is a violation of the law.

Relet reflects that subject mentioned this personal activity to ISIDORE GIBBY NEEDLEMAN, which formed the basis for their discussion on the point. It is noted that enclosed report reflects that NEEDLEMAN did not know where to reach STAROBIN and was unfamiliar with the background of STAROBIN.

Employment

It is noted that the subject was abroad as a news correspondent from 1946 to 1948. While the subject may have been employed by his father at American Steel Buck Corporation from 1948 to 1950, subject's employment during that period has not yet been actually ascertained. Investigation will be conducted in an attempt to ascertain his activities during that period, and the possibility that subject's employment at American Steel Buck Corporation has been merely a cover will be considered. It is noted that his employment for that firm ceased at about the same time as his father (President of the firm) died.

SECURITY MATTER - C

Rebulet 1/24/56 and report of SA PETER F. MAXSON dated March 15, 1956, four copies of which are enclosed.

It is noted that CIA has advised that subject, who is now employed in the German Democratic Republic at the Leunawerke "Walter Ulbricht," reportedly has some connection with the ROSENBERGS. It is suggested that consideration be given to requesting CIA to more fully develop this information and to follow subject's activities in order to determine if there is any possibility of his being in contact with ALFRED SARANT.

SUBJECT: INVESTIGATION OF ELIZABETH BENTLEY
BY BIELASKI DETECTIVE AGENCY

Pursuant to instructions, Mr. DeLoach called upon General W. B. Smith this morning at 9:30 AM relative to the above situation. Upon arriving at General Smith's office, the General met DeLoach in the hallway and suggested that they go into his personal office where he desired to have DeLoach meet a very dear friend. DeLoach was then introduced to Anna Rosenberg who, as General Smith explained, had just flown in from New York. General Smith next inquired as to whether DeLoach would like to discuss matters in front of Miss Rosenberg. DeLoach indicated that perhaps, due to the confidential nature of the material to be discussed, that the matter should be discussed elsewhere. It was pointed out to Miss Rosenberg that she undoubtedly had no interest whatsoever in the routine affairs of Washington intelligence agencies and therefore the General and DeLoach would not bore her with conversation concerning things she knew nothing about.

Upon conferring with General Smith in an outer office, it was brought to his attention that Mr. Hoover wished to informally advise him that Frank Bielaski, a former OSS operator, had reportedly indicated to certain sources that he had been requested by General William Donovan to investigate the activities of Elizabeth Bentley. It was indicated that Miss Bentley had, in the past, served as a Government witness and that undoubtedly her services would be demanded in the future by the Government. General Smith was additionally advised that Frank Bielaski's Detective Agency in the past had served as the investigative agency handling inquiries of personnel attached to the Office of Policy Coordination - CIA project, the Committee for a Free Europe. General Smith was advised that it seemed quite ironical that Bielaski had been hired by an instrumentality of the United States Government to investigate applicants and, on the other hand, had also been hired to investigate an individual who had, and would in the future, serve as a witness for the U. S. Government. It was pointed out to the General that the FBI had received information indicating that certain newspaper sources might in the near future, carry an expose of Bielaski's investigation of Elizabeth Bentley. General Smith was advised that if the event such articles publicly appeared, they might prove embarrassing to CIA inasmuch as CIA had Bielaski on the payroll.

General Smith fully agreed with the above viewpoint. He stated that he received approximately six letters each week from General Donovan, advising him how to run CIA. He indicated that he was tired of receiving such "trifling tripe" and that he intended to personally tell Donovan to not only refrain from writing him personally but that he (Donovan) should keep his hands off matters strictly pertaining to Governmental affairs.

It was indicated to General Smith that Mr. Hoover had no objections to what might be said to General Donovan; however, it was felt that no mention should be made of the Director or the FBI in the event General Smith discussed this matter with Donovan. General Smith stated he very definitely would not mention his source of information.

General Smith asked that his compliments be expressed to the Director and said that he sincerely appreciated Mr. Hoover's tipping him off on this situation.

In order to enable a more thorough research and to permit an identification of the RACA aeronautical and guided missile projects known to have come into the possession of the Soviets, the Bureau desires that a thorough interview be had with [REDACTED] for the purpose of obtaining additional details which might be of assistance in pursuing this matter. In all instances an effort should be made to secure an approximate date when, according to [REDACTED] best recollection, the various information apparently was obtained by the Soviets. b7D

With the view of obtaining additional details concerning the various aeronautical and guided missile projects referred to by [REDACTED] this matter was discussed with RACA and pursuant to the Bureau's request they submitted a letter dated June 6, 1951, setting forth details of the various projects which they consider are possibly identical with those mentioned by [REDACTED]. Pertinent memoranda and reports, some of which were classified as restricted and confidential, were furnished to the Bureau by RACA as indicated in this communication, but these documents are being retained by the Bureau for possible assistance in connection with any future inquiry and for evaluation of such information obtained as a result of your interview with [REDACTED]. Copies of the aforementioned RACA letter are being attached hereto for your information and assistance in conducting this interview. You will note that this letter contains specific questions which should be asked [REDACTED] concerning each of the aeronautical and guided missile projects, the answers to which questions will be of assistance in enabling RACA to make a more positive identification of the exact RACA data which may have fallen into the hands of the Soviets. b7D.

One of the important lines of interrogation which might assist in determining the exact source and possibly the identity of the Soviet agent involved is with reference to the nature of the reports, blueprints, engineer's drawings, charts, and pamphlets [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] it should, therefore, be specifically determined whether these were actual bound printed copies, b7D

photostatic or photographic copies, or merely summaries of information obtained relative to NACA research projects. It should be further ascertained how [redacted] knew that this information emanated from NACA, and particularly from the NACA Laboratory at Langley Field, Virginia. (b7D)

In order that you might acquaint yourself with the organization and operational setup of NACA, there is attached hereto a booklet entitled "NACA." For your information, the NACA symbol appearing on the back cover page of this pamphlet was noted to appear on many of the bound printed research reports published by NACA and also to appear at the bottom of many of their charts and engineer drawings. This fact might be helpful to you in questioning [redacted] concerning [redacted] (b7D)

In questioning [redacted] you should take inquiry as to whether [redacted]

This is of interest inasmuch as David Greenglass, confessed Soviet agent, advised that in 1948 Rosenberg told him he had just received the mathematics for nuclear energy airplanes. The previously mentioned Bureau informant of unknown reliability has also stated that Rosenberg claimed to have received such information from Berl. (b7D)

You will note with respect to the information pertaining to the Bell X-2 plane that [redacted]

[redacted] be questioned in detail concerning the basis for his knowledge as to the SGPC being the source of this information. In this respect you are advised that one Andrei Schavchenko, a known Soviet agent, was assigned as a representative of the SGPC at the Bell Aircraft Corporation, Buffalo, New York, where this plane was in production. It is therefore logical to assume that the information may have been obtained through Schavchenko or possibly one of his successors at the Bell Aircraft Corporation. (b7D)

To assist you in questioning [redacted]

[redacted] you are advised that the X-2 plane is a [redacted] (b7D) missile weighing in the vicinity of 5,000 pounds, having a range of approximately 120 miles and a maximum speed of around 460 miles per hour. The over-all length of this bomb is described as being approximately 27 feet. The over-all wing span has 212 inches and the maximum diameter is 33 inches. The war head on this bomb weighs 2100 pounds. The motor assembly for the JB-2 bomb was being produced by the Ford Motor Company and contained a "pulse jet," plus burners with the dimensions of approximately 16 inches in length and 8 to 9 inches in diameter. It was further determined that as of September, 1944, the JB-2 bomb was being considered for use on aircraft carriers. It is requested that [redacted] be appropriately interviewed concerning the JB-2 bomb to determine whether [redacted] b7D

[redacted] b1 b2 CIA

It was suggested by NACA for your consideration that should it be preferable to conduct this interview through [redacted] it would be advisable to select one who possesses some familiarity with technical aeronautical terms and matters. NACA also has indicated its willingness to make available, if desired, one of their technical experts to assist you should it become necessary to question [redacted] in more detail concerning the complex technical aeronautical data involved. b7D

At the time of your interview you should make an effort to determine the extent of familiarity which [redacted] has relative to [redacted] b7D

This interview should be given your prompt and expeditious attention and the results thereof should be so reported as to enable appropriate dissemination thereof to CIA.

Subject had a job with FIAT OMGUS, for which he had been sought out by Allied scientists in Berlin. At that time he had access to information on German scientists who had been taken to Russia.

2. A reliable source reported 8 March 1948 that Subject had formerly been the scientific editor for The Springer Publishing Co. in Berlin and was then editor of a new British journal of research - The Pergamon Press. Subject intended to return to Berlin and Dr. GOUDSMIT, senior physicist at the Brookhaven Long Island National Laboratory, wished to know when Subject left for Berlin and whether this return would be permanent.

3. A usually reliable source reported 27 August 1948 that before and during the war Subject was head of the Scientific Publications Section of Lange & Springer Company, located in what became the Soviet Sector of Berlin. As of August 1948 he had twice been back to Berlin from England, where he had emigrated at the end of the war. He has a wide general knowledge of the scientific research field and of the personalities therein. In October 1945, Subject, fearing kidnapping by the Russians, was escorted from Berlin to London with the assistance of the British.

4. Information dated 2 September 1948 source unidentifiable, reported that Subject [redacted] in the Fall of 1945 concerning German scientists and research institutions and Russian interest therein. At that time it was stated that Subject probably had more knowledge of local (German) scientific personnel than anyone in Berlin. [redacted]

[redacted] even though he had had some connections with the Russians shortly after they occupied Berlin. Subject explained these connections by saying he had been afraid that two tons of heavy water then in German hands might be lost to the scientific world; therefore he informed the Russians of its existence. In addition, he gave them the names of Germans who had been connected with atomic research. He claimed that he instructed the Russians to pass this information on to the British authorities and wrote Peter KAPITZA, a Russian physicist, to that effect, but received no answer. The report expressed the opinion that Subject was forced to cooperate with the Russians, since he was living in the Russian Sector and was under their jurisdiction.

5. On the other hand, in a [redacted] February 1946, Dr. RIEHL, a German scientist working for the Russians in Moscow, claimed to have heard from a reliable source that subject had approached the Soviet authorities about the possibility of going to Russia, and that he, RIEHL, had recommended Subject accordingly.

6. In correspondence with [redacted] Subject stated that upon his return to Berlin his address would be Berlin/Steglitz, Duenther Strasse 7/1.

116-18315-134

This was the address of one Ruth LANGE, Subject's mistress. Subject's politics were believed to be somewhat liberal, although he was not believed to be a Communist. [REDACTED] stated Subject broke with Prof. Robert ROMPE, an East German scientist, when the latter allied himself too strongly with the Communists. b3

8. An uncorroborated report from a source of unknown reliability submitted the following information on 14 April 1950:

[REDACTED] b6

9. This information was transmitted to [REDACTED] who requested further questioning of source. Further questioning resulted in a letter from the source dated [REDACTED] June 1950, which stated that Subject was apparently [REDACTED] that he was a German emigrant and a [REDACTED] that he was known to have a close relationship with Prof. Robert ROMPE, who visited him every time Subject was in Berlin; and that he had another contact in Berlin, one Ruth LANGE (see above) [REDACTED] b3 b6

10. On 22 May 1950 a usually reliable source, who had known Subject [REDACTED] reported the following: b3

"Subject married a Jewish woman, and refusing to be separated from her during the Nazi period, took her and their ten-year old daughter to England. He returned to Germany and during the war corresponded with his wife through neutral countries.

"About 1936 Subject joined the publishing firm of Springer as a free lance writer. After his wife left Germany, he moved in with Ruth LANGE, whose sister is Hilde BENJAMIN, an active East German Communist, and present head of the East German Ministry of Justice. Both Miss LANGE and Subject are on "thou" terms with Prof. Robert ROMPE.

"As of May 1950 Subject was manager of the firm Bitterworth and Springer, London, and in addition, earned money by writing book reviews and articles. He was described as "a Bohemian type."

"On his visits to Berlin he was believed to move freely in the Soviet Sector. His many visits to German scientists are reasonably explained by his professional activity. In April 1950 ROMPE's office made inquiries in West Berlin for Subject's private address in London, and was not satisfied with obtaining only his business address.

"After the war Subject let it be known that he had done a lot for the British during the war. This activity was not known to his friends during the war. There is no doubt about his strong anti-Nazi attitude."

11. Another acquaintance of Subject reported on [REDACTED] 1950 that in his opinion, personal conversations which he had had with Subject did not show Subject to be a convinced Communist. However, he added, "Subject might be in that group of 'honest liberals' who are willing to cooperate."

14. In December 1952, Subject, in the course of a conversation with an [REDACTED] Germany brought up the topic of Prof. ROMPE. He said that ROMPE was kept virtually a prisoner in East Berlin, and that ROMPE's wife was primarily to blame for the strong Communist line in the family. Subject said that he had attempted to have ROMPE visit him in West Berlin during the meeting of the German physicists there in October 1952, but that Prof. MOEGELICH, ROMPE's superior, had vetoed such a visit. Instead, MOEGELICH had offered to take Subject to ROMPE. Subject declined.

15. Subject said that upon his instigation the University of Manchester had some time previously invited ROMPE for a six-month lecture tour. ROMPE let the invitation go unanswered.

16. In the general conversation that followed Subject stated that he was anti-Communist, as he had been anti-Nazi, but that, unfortunately, even being a liberal these days brought suspicion upon me.

17. An American contact of Subject [REDACTED] stated in a report on their relationship, dated 10 December 1952, that he "believes that suspicions about Subject may be the result of his unpopularity in certain German circles". (Subject had had a falling out with the Springer firm over the publishing of a book.) "These suspicions are aided by the fact that his mistress, Ruth (LANGE) BENJAMIN, has a Communist sister with whom neither Subject nor, as far as can be determined, his mistress, has any contact. Subject has never attempted to hide his relationship with Ruth (LANGE) BENJAMIN, and is open and articulate about his attachment to the ideals exemplified by British and the United States."

All the chemists at the Royal Institute of Technology are good. Lars Gunnar Sillén is certainly one of the top inorganic chemists in Sweden. During World War II, he was in charge of war gas research in Sweden. With two assistants, he did as much work on war gas as was done in the US. He told me that, after the war, he compared notes with US scientists and learned that he had even kept pace in some war gas discoveries. In August 1952, he was still working on these gases but I know no details of his work. I do know that he was giving a class on field tests for war gas. In addition to his job at the Institute, Sillén also works for the Swedish government in the Forvararets Forningsanstalt (FOA), near Stockholm. Sillén is a man of about 40 years. He is married and has three children. He lives in Djursholm which is a suburb of Stockholm. He took his degree at the University of Stockholm. He taught inorganic chemistry at the University of Stockholm until 1951 when he joined the faculty of the Royal Institute of Technology. He speaks many languages, including Russian. He is a very efficient worker; his office is beautifully organized with all sorts of time-saving devices. He carries a wire recorder with him at all times in order to be able to dictate at any time. Actually, Sillén is more interested in administration than in research. He is known among Swedish scientists as the "business-man chemist". In addition to his interest in chemistry, he has made extensive studies of methods of education in various countries and is very informed on changing educational systems. In 1950, the King of Sweden sent him to the US to study US methods and these are now being used in Sweden. Whereas, formal lectures were given formerly, required reading is now assigned and the lectures cover supplementary material. Sillén likes and copies US methods in general. He, by the way, was offered a professorship at the University of Minnesota while he was in the US but he turned down the offer. Because of his leadership in educational reform, Sillén has earned for himself from his colleagues the title, "Bad Boy of Stockholm". Sillén has applied for permission to visit the USSR to study their educational system but, so far, the Soviet government has not granted it. He is very interested in the USSR and has gotten many books on Soviet education. He may have visited the USSR years ago. His uncle, Sjohann-Bannfelt, who is now a general in the Swedish army, was on the staff of the Swedish ambassador to Moscow.

2. Also at the Royal Institute of Technology is Professor Dr Ole Albert Lamm who is professor of physical chemistry. He is an authority on diffusion and, when I visited his laboratory, I saw there some of the finest diffusion apparatus I have ever seen. This apparatus would be hard to get anywhere but it was built by the Institute's machine shops. It was composed of a series of coils, rather than verticle tubes, and took up very little space. It separates isotopes (in gas form) with the highest efficiency and could produce several pounds in six months' time.
3. Others at the Royal Institute in Stockholm are Holger Gustaf Erdman, an organic chemist specializing in wood chemistry (his particular field is cellulose) and Dr. George Biederman, one of the many Hungarian and Baltic refugees now in Sweden. Biederman told me that he would very much like to come to the US.
4. The Chemistry laboratories at the University of Uppsala have very modern equipment, better in some respects than that of the US. For example, its ultra-centrifuges are better than those of the US. The Netherlands and Wageningen supply some of the equipment at Uppsala, but the University of Wageningen machine shops and mechanics are marvelous. Generally, Sweden is producing much more scientific equipment than before World War II. For example, a PH Measure, which is used for measuring acidity and basicity, is now being made in Sweden.
5. The Svedberg is, of course, the Nobel Prize winner and Professor Extraordinaire at Uppsala. He is now an old man and, by the way, a dead ringer for Carl Sandburg. He developed the ultra-centrifuge and is now in charge of part of the atomic energy work at Uppsala. I believe he has a cyclotron. He undoubtedly is doing work for the government. He rules with dictatorial power over the government.

- [REDACTED]
6. Arne Tiselius is also at the University of Uppsala. He is a professor of biochemistry and a top-notch scientist. Others at Uppsala are Professor Dr. Arne Fredga, organic chemist, and Professor Stig Melker Claesson, physical chemist, and Gunnar Haegg, inorganic chemist. I do not know his name; but one of the group at Uppsala is doing work on nerve gases. He published a paper on his work in the Chemistry and Engineering News which is a weekly bulletin put out by the American Chemical Society. I believe the article on the Uppsala research was in the November-December 1953 issue.

7. The University of Lund has deteriorated. Its equipment is not as good as Uppsala's. The professors are also bad at Lund; their assistants are better. The situation seems to be the result of inbreeding of bad stock, for the professors before the current group were also inferior. On the staff at Lund is E. Larsson /fm/ who is a not-so-good organic chemist. A man named Fromaeus /fm/, who is not a professor, is a good inorganic chemist. His field is complex ions. Stig Arne Sumner, who holds a rating at Lund probably equivalent to that of an assistant professor in the US, is a good organic chemist. His particular field is sulphur chemistry. Both men are about thirty-five years of age. I can only explain their being at Lund by the fact that there are no openings elsewhere. Kirge Adell (I do not know that he ever used the name; Wilk Anders), formerly at Lund, is now dead.
8. The University of Stockholm has Arne Glander (I have never heard that he had the name, Gustav) who is a physical chemist. Also at Stockholm is an organic chemist named Marbach /fm/. Georg Charles Von Hevesy /note: not "de" Hevesy/ was a giant at Stockholm in 1920-30. He is not so active now. Hans Karl Von Euler-Chelpin, biochemist, is also older and, although still at Sundholm, is no longer so active.
9. The Caroline Institute is primarily a medical school. It has there Hugo Theorell who is the best biochemist in Sweden.
10. Gothenburg is another 'not-so-good'. It is a jumping-off place to good positions elsewhere. Arvid Hedvall (I never knew him to use the name, Johan), who is an inorganic chemist, is now retired from their staff. Cyrtl. Brocst is also an inorganic chemist and now represents Schall. Belach is a Russian and is a naturalized citizen of Sweden. He may have been a White Russian; I know he left Russia when he was very small. Dr Olof Samuelson is an agricultural chemist at Gothenburg.
11. The Nobel Institute is just outside of Stockholm. It is, of course, endowed by Nobel and is not a government institute. Most of its work is done for the government, however. All high appointments to its staff are made by the King; I believe some help must be given by the State in paying salaries. The Nobel Institute is doing work on some fundamental problems and the bulk of atomic energy research in Sweden is being done there. Among the Nobel Institute's projects for the government is research on atom smashing. The Institute has a Wander Gneiff generator and a cyclotron. The head man of the Nobel Institute is Nanne Siegbahn, Nobel Prize winner. He is still doing research at the Institute.
12. The head of Chemistry at the Nobel Institute is Lars Melander. He is a very bright, young man who was picked for his job in spite of his mere 35 years. He was a graduate student under Sillen at the University of Stockholm and has done some quite good things. He has visited the US often and is a good friend of the US. I feel that he is an altogether fine person.

Melander has never married and now lives at the Institute. His research has generally to do with the application of radio-active elements to chemical problems. He is working on the use of radio-active elements to study chemical reactions. He feels that the mechanics of chemical reactions can be studied by the use of radioisotopes.

13. Of the above-mentioned chemists, I believe the following to be most outstanding in Sweden:

a) Organic Chemists:

Holger Gustav Erdtman
[Inu] Myrbach

PROFESSOR UREY ON VACATION VISIT TELLS ABOUT HIS RESEARCH AND HIS VIEW ON A CURRENT PROBLEM

The Thing That Interests me Most is the Question of the Origin of the Solar System

Our Ruling Organs. Our Government Must be Made Effective

The Nobel Prize Winner, Professor in Chemistry at the University in Chicago, Dr. Harold C. Urey, has quietly made a visit to Copenhagen. He is enjoying a vacation, visiting friends and colleagues, and is showing his family these places he visited in his youth during the years when he studied with Niels Bohr. The discovery of heavy brint ("heavy water") gave him the Nobel Prize in 1934; in the time in-between he has been one of those who made the atomic bomb and who opened the eyes of the world to the dangers of the atomic age. Now he is vacationing. But from the beech trees in Northern Zealand his thoughts go back to the distant past, to the creation of the world and to the origin of life. And the thoughts go to the near future...

I Have Returned Especially to See Dyrehaven Again

What is your mission this time?

Only to enjoy myself. I have taken the family along, and I have especially come to see Dyrehaven again. I haven't seen it for 30 years.

You have been here several times since the war.

Yes, but not in Dyrehaven; there hasn't been time for that. I am always looking forward to visiting Denmark, but it is especially Dyrehaven which has been on my mind. And then it appears that it is even more beautiful than I remembered. It is bigger, and the trees are taller than then, it seems to me.

The trees have grown during 30 years.

Yes, but some of them have also been felled, that is a pity. It is much more lively than I remembered it, and it is seldom that the second meeting surpasses the memory to such an extent.

Have you come directly from the U.S.A.?

Yes. That is, we came to Bergen at the end of July, have been in Oslo and then in Sweden, in the vicinity of Göteborg.

Congresses and conferences have not called you over here this time?

No, I have spoken with university people on the way, been together with friends and acquaintances, but it has been nice for once not having to make speeches and listen to speeches.

Don't you like to do that?

Oh well, that is not how it should be understood, but it is pleasant with a change - only to travel on vacation.

Is it politics or science which keeps you most busy at the present time?

Science - I have never gone in for politics much.

Earlier you have shown that you were very interested in political questions?

Yes, but it hasn't taken much of my time. Almost all of my time has been devoted to science, all through my life.

I Should Appreciate Your Mentioning His Name

What are you especially busy with right now?

The thing that occupies most of my time is the question of the origin of the solar system. And the work during the last few years has not changed my fundamental ideas very much; but several facts have been gathered which support these ideas. One of my co-workers - and I should appreciate your mentioning his name if you write about this; his name is Wasserberg - has made some mineralogic age determinations from which it appears that the solar system must be at least 4.8 milliard years old, at least. His research is also based on the fact, which I think is likely, that the earth was created under low temperature, (not as they otherwise have thought: in melted condition).

How low a temperature?

Normal, like now. It has probably come into existence through an accumulation of objects.

How long have you come in your work with the prospects of producing life in the laboratory?

Mr. Miller, another of my able co-workers, has just written a dissertation on the question of the origin of life. He has been able to produce amino acids (the base of albumen) in the laboratory of many different kinds, both known and so far unknown both materials which exist in living organisms and other carbon compounds.

Professor Urey speaks in a low voice like other scholars, but now he raises his voice slightly:

For fifty years this has been attempted without success. Miller has performed it, this young man - he is 23 years old - now - he has produced amino acids in many varieties and has isolated them and determined them. They were produced by his adding electrical impulses to a mixture of ammonia, water, and methane. This is the mixture which corresponds to my conjecture of the composition of the atmosphere before the organic materials came into existence here on the earth...

Then he adds with a little smile:

...and one can say that if God did not create life in this atmosphere, then he let a good chance pass by!

No, we are still very far from producing living organisms in the laboratory, but I am happy about Miller's success. I had hoped to receive his dissertation here, but now I hear that I will get it in France where I am going to visit my daughter. I am leaving tomorrow. It is a good dissertation; perhaps there are a few details to be corrected, but all the essential things are correct. Miller and Wasserberg are the best students I have ever had.

What Do You Think About Oppenheimer?

How are the conditions otherwise for scientific work in the U.S.A. at the present time?

They are not bad; they are interested in trends, but I think everything will go well.

There has been some political interference?

Mainly there have only been investigations; they are interested in trends as I said, and it has given us some trouble, but as a whole the effects are not big.

What do you think about the Oppenheimer affair?

Professor Urey reacts with a movement of his head and a nondescript "uh" which can be freely interpreted as an expression of distaste and dislike to make a statement. After a brief hesitation he says:

I don't think Oppenheimer has given secret information to the wrong people, and I do not think that he would do it. It is a very bad affair; it should not have happened. But the whole thing is very complicated, and it would take a very long time to explain it.

Aren't you able to give the main points briefly?

Well, as I have said, I do not believe that Oppenheimer is a disloyal citizen. I think that the advice which he has given has been wrong in some cases, but that is something that may happen to anybody who has to give advice, and I do not think that he should be attacked in that way for those reasons. That must be enough.

You yourself advocated that the brint bomb should be produced?

I advocated that they should start the necessary experiments in order to determine whether it could be done. Whether they should produce it should be decided in consideration of whether they thought that it was necessary to have it. But everything that we attempt these years - at least in the destructive field - seems to succeed.

We Must Stabilize the Government in Bigger Areas Than Now

During our conversation neither of us have directly mentioned Professor Urey's world-known pamphlet, "I am Afraid...". It is not mentioned now either. But he continues, almost in the same breath.

We must have better government organization. We must stabilize the government in bigger areas than now. The treaty about the European Army is one step in that direction. There must be somebody who can give orders to a defense army. That is something that we in the democratic countries do not think about enough. We are all afraid of our military forces and try to prevent that it gets too much control. The difficulties in such things as the European Army are that we do not at the same time create sufficient civilian authority on a central basis. An effective government organization at a similar high level as the military is necessary. I have always advocated an Atlantic Union with real cooperation. It is very difficult to create this; there are many many hindrances, but it is absolutely necessary.

We may have the best intentions in the world ... but they would be futile if we do not have an adequate political machinery for their accomplishment. Our ruling rogans, our governments, must be made effective...

Reurlet of August 21, 1951, in the case entitled "Joseph Katz; Espionage - R". It is noted that you requested information concerning one Judah Joseph Shapiro, Cultural Director for the American Joint Distribution Committee in Paris, France. U

You were furnished with the information appearing in bufiles pertaining to Shapiro by bulet of September 13, 1951, in the Katz matter. It will be recalled that this check reflected that the name of one Judah J. Shapiro, 724 Foster Avenue, Brooklyn, New York, appeared in a Bates List Finder located in the possession of subject Sarant. Further, that this Shapiro was indicated as being a friend of Louise Sarant and her parents, the Victor K. D. Rosses, of Ithaca, New York. U

For your information, the New York and Washington Field offices, which have been furnished with the substance of the information concerning Shapiro as appearing in reflet, are being requested to make an immediate effort, through investigation at the address 724 Foster Avenue and through a check of State Department records, to determine whether the Judah Joseph Shapiro referred to in urlet and the Judah J. Shapiro mentioned in the preceding paragraph are identical. U

 SUBJECT: ALFRED EPAMINONDAS SARANT, was.
 ESPIONAGE - R

DATE: September 24, 1951

PURPOSE

To suggest that, in view of the lapse of over one year since the flight of subject Sarant from the United States without any definite information as to his whereabouts being obtained, and the recent indication that he might be in Europe and possibly Israel, a summary of the data available concerning Sarant be furnished to CIA, G-2 and the State Department with the request that they advise this Bureau if any information as to Sarant's whereabouts might come to their attention.

Appropriate memoranda in accordance with the foregoing are attached hereto for your approval.

DETAILS

Recently, [REDACTED] has advised that Julius Rosenberg informed him Sarant had gone to Europe by way of Mexico. No verification of this information has been obtainable to date. U

The latter information is believed to be of possible significance, particularly in view of the fact that the investigation in the Sarant case, as well as the Rossant matter, has failed to indicate any previous contact or connection between the Rossants and the Rosses. It is therefore highly conceivable that Sarant may have used this medium to get word to his wife as to his present whereabouts.

To date, there has been only a partial dissemination concerning this matter to CIA and [REDACTED]. In addition, the pertinent reports submitted in this matter have been appropriately furnished to Assistant Attorney General McInerney for his information and consideration in connection with the Federal Grand Jury inquiry into the espionage activities of the Rosenberg network. b1

RECOMMENDATION

It is therefore recommended that a summary of the facts concerning Sarant be disseminated to CIA, G-2 and State with the request that they furnish this Bureau with any information that may come to their attention from sources in Europe as to the present whereabouts and activities of Sarant. Further, that [redacted] be appropriately alerted along the same lines. b1

There are attached hereto for your approval letters to CIA, G-2, State, [redacted] and the Bureau's Legal Attaches in London and Paris. b1

Your attention is invited to my memorandum of January 28, 1951, in the above-captioned matter. For your further information, there are attached hereto copies of a memorandum dated September 24, 1951, containing a summary of the information developed as a result of the investigation conducted relative to Alfred Spaminondas Sarant by this Bureau.

You will note that the last positive information as to the whereabouts of Sarant and Carol Dorothy Dayton, who accompanied him on his flight from the United States, was their presence in Guadalajara, Mexico, on August 13, 1950. However, according to a recent statement made by Julius Rosenberg, convicted Soviet espionage agent, to a confidential informant of unknown reliability, Sarant was reported to be in Europe.

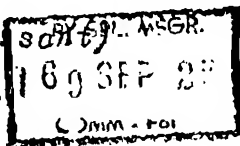

In this connection, it has been learned that a letter was recently received at the present residence of Louise Sarant, wife of subject, which letter was addressed to her mother, Mrs. Victoria E. Ross. The envelope bore the postmark of New York City, August 24, 1951, and the return address of Rossant or Rosant, 71st St., New York City. It appears that this communication emanated from the Murray J. Rossants, who are known to have registered in that hotel on August 17, 1951.

Inasmuch as our investigation in instant matter, as well as the Rossant case, has failed to develop any information indicating any connection or contact between the Rossants and the Rosses, it is considered that a possible significance may be attached to the fact of this communication directed by the Rossants to Mrs. Ross. It is suggested that Sarant may possibly be using this medium to get word to his wife concerning his present whereabouts. (U)

It would therefore be appreciated if you would cause an appropriate investigation to be conducted by your representatives in Europe and particularly in France and Israel to determine whether Sarant may presently be residing there.

[REDACTED]

In the event his whereabouts is learned, the details of his current activities and contacts should be secured and made available to this Bureau. (U)

Photographs of Sarant and Carol Dorothy Dayton are being attached hereto for your assistance in this matter.

This information is confidential and should not be disseminated outside your agency.

The Central Intelligence Agency by report dated April 13, 1954, classified "confidential" furnished the following information concerning Tag Svedberg and Arne Tiselius. The information concerning these individuals which is set forth below in its entirety is described as unevaluated information. CIA states the source is a [REDACTED]

The Svedberg is, of course, the Nobel Prize winner and Professor Extraordinaire at Uppsala. He is now an old man and, by the way, a dead ringer for Carl Sandburg. He developed the ultra-centrifuge and is now in charge of part of the atomic energy work at Uppsala. I believe he has a cyclotron. He undoubtedly is doing work for the government. He rules with dictatorial powers over the government. I regret to report, however, that he is [REDACTED]

Arne Tiselius is also at the University of Uppsala. He is a professor of biochemistry and a top-notch scientist. Others at Uppsala are Professor Dr Arne Fregu, organic chemist, and Professor Stig Melker Claesson, physical chemist, and Gunnar Haegg, inorganic chemist. I do not know his name, but one of the group at Uppsala is doing work on nerve gases. He published a paper on his work in the Chemistry and Engineering News which is a weekly bulletin put out by the American Chemical Society. I believe the
